

Several reasons to welcome an intern from a Higher Vocational Education program (LIA)

LIA (Learning in Work) gives students the opportunity to apply their knowledge and skills in a real work environment – while your company gains access to engaged talent and potential future employees.

Benefits for your company

 Energy and inspiration Our students bring motivation, curiosity, and up-to-date knowledge. They contribute with fresh perspectives and new energy to your team.

 Mouldable competence You have the chance to influence and shape future professionals to suit your workflows, values, and methods.

 Efficient recruitment channel Through LIA, you get to know potential employees in practice – before making a hiring decision.

 Increased productivity An extra resource in the team can help you take on more projects or streamline daily operations.

 Updated expertise Students are often aware of current trends, tools and methods in the field and can contribute fresh insights to your organization.

What does it mean to be a LIA company and supervisor?

As a LIA company, you appoint a supervisor who is responsible for planning, supporting, and following up the student's internship period.

- An opportunity to strengthen leadership and mentoring skills
- A way to secure future competence for your business
- A rewarding and inspiring experience

 Hosting a LIA student is completely free of charge.
